Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Roast the eggplants in a hot oven (or over a gas flame) until soft and charred all over. Cover them with cling film while warm so they steam and the skins come away easily. 0:25
2. Warm 2 tbsp olive oil in a wide pan, add the beef mince in small pieces and cook it gently over low–medium heat, pressing and breaking it up so it stays fine instead of forming lumps. 0:55
3. Season the mince with salt, pepper and paprika. If it clumps, add a splash of water and keep mashing. Add a little more paprika for colour, stir well and turn off the heat. 1:44
4. Peel the eggplants and chop the flesh coarsely with a knife so it keeps some texture. 3:00
5. Thinly slice the garlic. Melt 2 tbsp butter in a frying pan, add the garlic and stir until fragrant. Add the eggplant, season with salt and pepper and toss for a minute or two. 4:15
6. Tip the eggplant into a bowl and, while it is still warm, stir in 5 tbsp strained yoghurt. 6:10
7. Spread the eggplant yoghurt over a wide platter, spoon the hot mince on top and scatter with parsley, with sliced green pepper and tomato around the edge. 7:05

> Tip Serves 4 is our estimate for 14 oz mince. Arda suggests finishing it with a little butter sizzled with paprika (not counted here). Often eaten with pide bread; on its own or with a salad it stays low in carbs.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in Turkish) shows every step.
