Whole fish baked in a herb and tomato sauce rather than fried, with only 2 tbsp of oil for four servings: a serve gives about 28 g of protein, is rich in selenium and vitamin B12, and has no added sugar.

Diet notes: Low carb (6.6 g net carbs) but not keto: 35% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more; Low saturated fat (0.9 g, 3% of the energy); Paleo with a swap: olive, avocado or coconut oil instead of the vegetable oil.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Make a deep cut along each side of the cleaned fish and prick the flesh inside with the knife tip so the marinade can get in. Remove the eyes to avoid bitterness. 1:06
2. Blend the cilantro, garlic, paprika, cumin, chilli, salt, oil and water into a thick, smooth chermoula. 1:36
3. Lay the fish in a baking dish and cover it all over, inside and out, with half the chermoula. 2:33
4. Halve the tomatoes and grate the flesh on the coarse side of a grater, discarding the skins. Mix the grated tomato with the remaining chermoula and pour it around the fish. 3:19
5. Top the fish with alternating thin slices of tomato and lemon and spoon any last chermoula over them. 4:46
6. Bake at 180°C for 35–40 minutes until the flesh is cooked and soft; do not overbake. Serve straight from the dish. 6:00

> Tip Serves 4 is our estimate. Chermoula keeps a week in the fridge, so make a double batch. Fillets work too but need less time in the oven. Serve with bread or couscous.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
