Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat the oven to 450°F and line a rimmed tray with foil or baking paper. Feel the fillet for pin bones and pull out any you find, then lay it skin side down on the tray. 0:42
2. Melt the butter in a small pan and cook the shallot over medium heat about 3 minutes, until soft and just golden at the edges. Add the garlic for the last minute, then take off the heat. 2:20
3. Season the fish with salt and pepper and scatter over the lemon zest. Stir the lemon juice into the warm butter (or keep half to squeeze over at the end) and spoon the mixture over the fish. 3:13
4. Sprinkle with half the herbs and roast for about 15 minutes (12–17 depending on thickness), until the fish flakes easily. 4:05
5. Lift onto a platter or cut into portions, and finish with the remaining herbs and any lemon juice you kept back. 5:45

> Tip Salmon or cod fillets work the same way (add a few minutes for a thick salmon fillet). You can prepare it up to the oven stage hours ahead. On the grill, cook it on heavy foil for 10–15 minutes.
