Lamb, whole-grain frik and chickpeas give about 18 g protein and 7 g fibre a bowl, with 22 g net carbs that come with their fibre.

Ingredients 12 · SERVES 4

- [ ] 250 g lamb (or mutton), cut into small even cubes
- [ ] 80 g frik (cracked green wheat, freekeh), rinsed
- [ ] 150 g cooked chickpeas (canned, drained), or a good handful of dried chickpeas soaked overnight
- [ ] 1 onion, finely chopped
- [ ] 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
- [ ] 1½ tbsp tomato paste
- [ ] 1 bunch fresh coriander, chopped (keep a third to finish)
- [ ] 1 small celery stalk, with its leaves (lifted out before serving)
- [ ] 1.7 litres hot water, plus a little more if needed
- [ ] 1 tsp ground coriander
- [ ] 1 tsp salt, to taste
- [ ] ½ tsp black pepper

Allergens found in the listed ingredients: Gluten, Celery. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put a little of the olive oil, the onion and the lamb in a heavy pot (the cook uses a pressure cooker), cover and cook gently, stirring now and then, until the meat releases its juices and the onion turns translucent. 1:36
2. Season with the salt, black pepper and ground coriander; a pinch of paprika gives a redder soup. 2:28
3. Add a splash of water, the celery and two-thirds of the chopped coriander, cover and cook a few minutes more. 3:21
4. Stir in the tomato paste, then pour in hot water to cover well (about 1.7 litres in all; if you use soaked dried chickpeas, add them now). Cook until the lamb is tender: 35–40 minutes in a pot, less under pressure. 4:13
5. Rinse the frik and stir it into the simmering soup. Cook 15–20 minutes, stirring often so it doesn't catch, until the grains are tender; add hot water if it gets too thick. 5:06
6. Add the cooked chickpeas and simmer 5 minutes more. Lift out the celery and serve hot, scattered with the rest of the coriander. 5:49

> Tip A Ramadan staple in Algeria, often served with lemon wedges. Frik is young green wheat, a whole grain; bulgur is the nearest swap. Her blog version uses 400 g lamb for a meatier bowl. Freezes well.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in French) shows every step.
