No dairy listed · No nuts listed

All the filling of an egg roll without the fried wrapper: about 37 g protein and 15 g net carbs a bowl, with cabbage, carrot and edamame adding fibre and vitamin C.

Diet notes: Paleo with a swap: coconut aminos instead of the low-sodium soy sauce, olive, avocado or coconut oil instead of the spray oil, leave out the frozen shelled edamame, leave out the mirin; Gluten-free with a swap: Use tamari instead of soy sauce, and check the mirin, to keep it gluten-free.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Separate the cabbage leaves and slice both cabbages into thin ribbons. 0:38
2. Grate the carrots on the coarse side of a box grater, grate the garlic and ginger to a paste, and slice the spring onions. Toss the cabbages, carrot, spring onion and edamame together in a big bowl. 1:03
3. Whisk the soy sauce, apple cider vinegar, sesame oil and mirin, with a little white pepper if you like. 2:15
4. Heat a large high-sided pan over high heat, spray with oil and add the mince in one layer. Season lightly with salt and white pepper and sear about 3 minutes a side before breaking it up; cook until no longer pink. 2:46
5. Stir in the garlic and ginger paste for 1 minute until fragrant, then add all the vegetables. Let them sit a minute, then toss and cook 4–6 minutes until softened but still crunchy. 3:39
6. Pour in the sauce and toss over high heat for 1 minute. Check the seasoning, divide into 5 portions and top with sesame seeds and spring onion greens. 4:20

> Tip Keeps 3–4 days in the fridge or 4 months frozen; add a splash of stock when reheating. Use chicken, turkey or pork mince, or tofu for a vegetarian version.
