Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat a nonstick griddle or frying pan to about 190°C. Separate 3 eggs and keep the yolks for another dish. 2:34
2. Whisk the egg whites with 1 tbsp beef gelatin until combined and a little frothy. A few small lumps of gelatin are fine, or smooth the batter with a stick blender. 3:30
3. Brush the hot griddle lightly with ghee. Pour on a third of the batter and spread it with a spatula into a 13–15 cm round about 3 mm thick, with no thin spots. 4:02
4. Cook for about 2 minutes, until the edges lift and the underside is lightly browned, then flip and cook 2 minutes more. Brush on a little more ghee and repeat with the rest of the batter. 5:32
5. Use the crêpes warm or cool as wraps for meat, eggs or cheese. 11:16

> Tip Serves 1 is our estimate (the batch makes three small crêpes). Two whole eggs instead of the whites also work but taste more like omelette. They are soft and pliable, so use them like thin tortillas.
