Allergens found in the listed ingredients: none. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the flax seeds in a bowl with the salt, garlic powder, onion powder and cayenne. Add the cold water (the same volume as the seeds) and stir with a fork. 0:31
2. Cover and refrigerate overnight (a few hours at least), until the seeds have absorbed all the water and turned thick, sticky and pliable. 1:17
3. Heat the oven to 200 °F. Spread the mixture on a baking sheet lined with a silicone mat or baking paper, about ⅛ inch thick, as evenly as you can. Don't go thinner or the crackers will be fragile. 1:57
4. Score it into 32 rectangles with a bench scraper or knife. Bake in the centre of the oven for about 3 hours, re-marking the score lines after the first hour, until dark and fully crisp. 3:00
5. Turn the oven off and let the crackers cool inside with the door slightly open so they dry completely, then snap them apart along the lines. 4:04

> Tip Lovely with sharp cheddar or dips. They soften after about a day; re-crisp in a low oven for 30 minutes. Whole flax seeds are not fully digested, so go easy at first if fibre bothers you. Use ½ tsp salt for a milder cracker.
