A whole trout each gives about 40 g of protein and more than a day's omega-3 and vitamin D; with only a light dusting of flour it has about 6 g net carbs a serve.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Season the cleaned trout well inside and out with salt and pepper, then sprinkle with a little lemon juice. 1:04
2. At the very last moment, dip the fish briefly in flour (just a light coat) and lay it in a pan of hot oil. Fry until golden underneath, moving the pan now and then so nothing sticks. 1:59
3. Turn the trout and brown the second side the same way. Meanwhile chop the parsley very finely. 3:07
4. Keep spooning the hot fat over the fish so it cooks evenly from the top too. It is done when the dorsal fin pulls out easily. 3:31
5. Holding the fish in place, pour off the oil. Add the butter to the pan, let it melt and baste the trout with it, then lift the fish onto plates. 4:20
6. Add a good squeeze of lemon juice to the hot butter, let it sizzle, stir in the parsley and spoon some over the trout. Serve the rest of the parsley butter on the side. 5:14

> Tip Serves 2. Ask for portion-size trout (about 300 g each). Boiled parsley potatoes are the classic side; a cucumber or green salad keeps it lighter.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in German) shows every step.
