80 min · Serves 4 · 548 kcal a serve · Video 9:18 in Amharic · Melegna | መለኛ

Gluten-free ingredients · No nuts listed

51 g protein, 8 g fibre and 18 g net carbs a serve: beef simmered with a big pot of collard greens, which also make it rich in vitamins K, C and A.

Diet notes: Paleo with a swap: olive, avocado or coconut oil instead of the vegetable oil.

Allergens found in the listed ingredients: Milk. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Strip the gomen leaves off their tough stalks (keep the tender stems) and wash the leaves well in plenty of water. 0:45
2. Put the beef in a large pot with the water, cover and boil until the meat starts to soften. 2:30
3. Pile the greens on top of the beef, press them down as they wilt, cover and simmer, stirring now and then, until the leaves are soft. 3:10
4. Stir in the chopped garlic, then the oil, and keep simmering with the lid on. 4:30
5. Add the chopped red onion, stir it through, cover and cook until it softens into the greens. 5:55
6. Season with the rosemary, black pepper, mitmita, cinnamon, ginger and salt, then stir in the niter kibbeh. 6:55
7. Add the sliced green chillies and cook a few minutes more, until most of the liquid has cooked away and the greens are tender. 7:40
8. Serve hot, in a warmed clay dish if you have one. 8:15

> Tip Serves 4 (our estimate). The cook likes some pieces on the bone for flavour. Traditionally eaten with injera and extra mitmita on the side; lamb works well instead of beef.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in Amharic) shows every step.
