Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Cube the beef. Chop the onions, slice the carrots and parsnips, cut the celery into a few pieces, deseed the half pepper and halve the tomato. Peel and cube the potatoes and keep them in a bowl of water. 0:28
2. Warm the oil in a large pot and cook the onions gently until soft. Stir in the paprika, then the beef, salt, pepper and halved garlic, and cook over medium heat until the meat is seared all over. 2:08
3. Add the pepper and tomato with just enough water to cover the meat. Cover and simmer slowly until the beef is almost tender, about 1–1½ hours. 3:03
4. Pour in about 4¼ cups more water, add the carrots, parsnips, celery and bay leaves, cover and cook until the vegetables are half done. 3:23
5. Add the potatoes and cook until everything is tender. Season with salt, pepper and chopped parsley, and serve 3–4 ladles per person with extra parsley. 3:48

> Tip Add chilli or Hungarian hot pepper paste if you like heat. Serve with a slice of good rye or wholegrain bread. Freezes well.
