Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Roughly chop the pecans, as small or chunky as you like. 0:10
2. Melt the butter in a pan over medium-low heat, add the pecans and sauté 2–5 minutes, until fragrant and the butter turns amber. Let cool. 0:48
3. In a well-chilled bowl, add the cold cream, vanilla and powdered sweetener (blitz granulated sweetener to a powder if that's all you have). 1:42
4. Whip until it holds stiff peaks; if it isn't there yet, scrape down the sides and whip about 1 minute more. 2:20
5. Spread the whipped cream in a freezer container and fold in the butter pecans gently to keep it airy. 3:03
6. Fold in a pinch of salt, sprinkle flaky salt and a few raw pecans on top, cover and freeze 2–4 hours before scooping. 3:53

> Tip Chill the bowl first so the cream whips fast. It's very rich (about 560 kcal a serve), so small scoops go a long way. The video's bonus sugar-free caramel (2 tbsp butter, 60 ml sweetener, 60 ml cream) isn't counted here.
