Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Mix the coconut flour, psyllium husk, baking powder and salt in a bowl. 1:07
2. Warm the water for about 30 seconds in the microwave and add it in two batches, mixing into a smooth, soft dough ball; add a splash more water only if it is dry. 1:19
3. Cut the dough into 4 balls and let them rest for 10–15 minutes. 1:52
4. Roll each ball out between two sheets of baking paper, then trim it with a knife for a neat shape. 2:32
5. Heat a little ghee or butter in a pan and fry each naan until golden brown underneath, then flip, add a little more butter and brown the other side. 2:53

> Tip The same dough makes a paneer paratha (stuff with crumbled paneer, cumin, onion and coriander, fold and roll) or an uttapam (press in chopped tomato, capsicum and onion and fry in coconut oil).
