Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Boil the quinoa for about 12 minutes until just tender (red quinoa 14, black 16), then drain and cool. Cook the soaked butter beans until tender, then drain.
2. Optional coulis: simmer the physalis and sugar with enough water to half-cover until soft and reduced by two-thirds, then blend smooth and cool.
3. Whisk the lime juice, one chopped chilli and the olive oil into a dressing.
4. Mix the diced red onion and tomato with a little coriander and a squeeze of lime to make a quick salsa. 1:30
5. Toss the quinoa with the butter beans and the remaining coriander and chilli, season, and add about 3 tbsp of the dressing. Plate with fanned avocado squeezed with lime, the salsa on top and a few drops of coulis. 2:31

> Tip Serves 4 (our estimate). The dried beans need soaking overnight (not in the time); a drained 14 oz can of butter beans makes it a 25-minute salad. Skip the coulis for no added sugar.
