Two ferments in one quick bowl: the natto and kimchi with rice give about 13 g protein, 3.5 g fibre and a quarter of a day's iron for about 300 kcal, with under 3 g sugars and moderate salt (about 400 mg sodium).

Diet notes: Low saturated fat (0.9 g, 3% of the energy); Gluten-free with a swap: Natto sauce packets usually contain wheat-based soy sauce; use tamari instead to keep it gluten-free.

Allergens found in the listed ingredients: Gluten, Fish, Soy, Mustard. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put 5 oz warm cooked rice in a bowl. 3:51
2. Open the natto, lift out the sauce packets and peel off the plastic film. Whisk the beans fast with chopsticks at least 50 times (ideally about 150) until light, foamy and stringy, before adding any sauce. 2:47
3. Add the sauce packet, the mustard if you like, and the chopped green onion, and mix well. 3:19
4. Spoon the natto over the rice, pile the kimchi on top and eat straight away. 5:16

> Tip Sudachi's other favourite toppings: 1 tbsp grated daikon, ¼ avocado, a pasteurised egg yolk, or 1 tbsp tempura flakes. Hikiwari (crushed) natto is milder for first-timers. Kimchi usually has fish sauce; use a vegan kimchi for a vegan bowl.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
