Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the roasted salted sunflower seeds in a food processor and run it for 1–2 minutes, until they look dry and powdery. 1:04
2. Pour in the melted coconut oil and process for another 2–3 minutes, until the mixture turns sticky, clumps and starts to roll up the sides. 1:35
3. Add the vanilla and keep processing. 2:01
4. Process for 3–5 minutes more, stopping every few minutes to scrape down the bowl, until it is spreadable; keep going if you want it completely smooth. 2:08
5. Spoon into an airtight jar and keep it in the fridge.

> Tip Raw seeds work too: toast them in the oven first and add salt to taste, as the cook suggests. Good for nut-free school lunches. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.
