Green onions make this kimchi rich in vitamin K — about half a day's worth in a ¼-cup serve — for about 23 kcal and 1.6 g fibre. It is salty from the fish sauce (about 480 mg sodium a serve); the whole batch has just 2 tbsp sugar.

Diet notes: Low carb (3.2 g net carbs) but not keto: 15% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more; Low saturated fat (0.1 g, 4% of the energy).

Ingredients 6 · MAKES 48 × ¼ CUP (52 G)

- [ ] 1.4 kg green onions, roots trimmed, halved crosswise
- [ ] 240 ml fish sauce
- [ ] 40 g glutinous (sweet) rice flour
- [ ] 710 ml water, for the porridge
- [ ] 2 tbsp white or brown sugar
- [ ] 170 g gochugaru (Korean hot pepper flakes)

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Trim the roots and any tough or damaged tips and outer layers from the green onions, cut them in half crosswise, then rinse and drain about 3 times until clean. Shake off the water. 0:57
2. Toss the green onions with the 240 ml fish sauce and leave for 1 hour, turning them every 20 minutes. 2:07
3. Meanwhile whisk the rice flour into 710 ml water and cook over medium-high heat, stirring, until it bubbles. Add the sugar, turn the heat to medium and stir until slightly translucent. Cool completely. 3:10
4. Lift the green onions out and pour their fish sauce liquid into the cooled porridge. Stir in the gochugaru and let it soften 5–30 minutes into a thick red paste. 5:31
5. Toss the green onions in the paste, pack them into a jar or airtight container, pressing down so no air is left, and seal. 6:41
6. Eat fresh, or leave at room temperature until it tastes sour — about 7 days, sooner in a warm kitchen (or about 2 weeks in the fridge) — then keep it refrigerated and serve cold. 7:45

> Tip Makes about 2.5 kg, roughly 48 quarter-cup serves (our estimate). For a vegetarian version use soy sauce instead of fish sauce. Save the trimmed tips for stock. Serve cold with rice or stew.
