Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat the oil in a heavy pot over high heat until almost smoking. Add the pork and sear 4–5 minutes without moving, then stir and brown a little more. 0:28
2. Lower the heat to medium, add the onion with a big pinch of the salt and cook about 4 minutes until translucent. Stir in the oregano, cumin, coriander and cayenne and cook 2 minutes; turn the heat to low. 1:33
3. Blend the quartered tomatillos, jalapeños, poblano, garlic, cilantro and about 470 ml of the stock to a very smooth purée. 2:41
4. Pour the sauce over the pork, add more salt and the bay leaf and bring to the boil. Simmer gently for about 1 hour, stirring now and then and skimming off fat if you like. 4:13
5. Add the potatoes, season with salt and pepper, add a splash more stock if needed, and simmer 45–60 minutes until the pork and potatoes are fork-tender. 5:11
6. Taste for salt and serve in bowls topped with a dollop of sour cream, pickled red onions and torn cilantro. 6:15

> Tip Serves 4 large portions. Skim the fat during simmering to make it lighter. To pickle the onions, cover sliced red onion with red wine vinegar and a pinch of salt and chill overnight.
