Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the black-eyed beans in a pressure cooker with 5 cups of water and 1 tsp salt and cook for 4–8 whistles until soft (or soak them and simmer in a pan for a couple of hours). 0:47
2. Heat the oil, add the cumin seeds and let them sizzle, then add the onion and cook on medium heat for 10–15 minutes until golden. 2:20
3. Grate in the garlic and ginger and cook for about a minute, then add the tomatoes, cover and cook on low-medium for 12–15 minutes. 3:18
4. Stir in the turmeric, garam masala, ground coriander and chilli powder, then add the cooked beans with their liquid and another ½–¾ cup water. 4:54
5. Bring to the boil, then simmer very gently for about an hour until thick and the beans are soft. Add about ¾ cup boiling water for more gravy, bring back to the boil and finish with coriander. 6:04

> Tip Serves 6 (our estimate from 1 lb dried beans). Black-eyed beans don't need overnight soaking for a pressure cooker. It keeps well for 3–4 days and freezes well. Serve with chapati or rice.
