Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the flank steak in a pot, cover with water and add the cumin, oregano, ½ tbsp salt, bay leaves, a quarter onion and a garlic clove. Cook until very tender: about 25 minutes in a pressure cooker. 0:38
2. Meanwhile cut the red and green capsicum into thin strips, slice half a large red onion and crush the garlic. 1:23
3. Lift the beef out, keeping the broth. Drain it and pull it apart along its grain into thin shreds with two forks. 2:10
4. Heat 3 tbsp oil in a wide frying pan and gently fry the garlic, onion and capsicum over medium heat for about 5 minutes, without letting the garlic burn. 2:55
5. Add the shredded beef and fry it with the vegetables for about 2 minutes so it takes on their flavour. 3:19
6. Pour in the tomato sauce, 1½ cups of the cooking broth and the red wine, then add the paprika, salt and pepper. Simmer for 5 minutes over medium-high heat until the sauce is as thick as you like, then rest 10 minutes before serving. 3:37

> Tip Serves 4 (our estimate from 1¼ lb beef). In an ordinary pot, simmer the flank 1½–2 hours. Tomate frito is already salted, so season at the end. Cubans serve it with rice and black beans; cauliflower rice keeps it lower in carbs.
