Allergens found in the listed ingredients: Fish, Egg, Milk, Tree nuts, Mustard. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Skin the salmon: cut a little flap of skin to hold, then slide a sharp knife between flesh and skin at a slight angle. You want about 450 g of flesh. 0:38
2. Dice the salmon into cubes, then keep chopping by hand until finely chopped with a few chunkier bits — a food processor makes the burgers dense. 1:44
3. Gently mix the salmon with the egg, almond flour, parsley and dill, red onion, garlic, Dijon, lemon juice, salt and pepper until just combined. 2:15
4. Shape into 4 patties on a parchment-lined tray and refrigerate 20–30 minutes so they hold together. 2:56
5. Meanwhile stir the Greek yoghurt with the lemon juice, olive oil, parsley, dill, garlic, salt and pepper and let it rest 10–15 minutes. 3:13
6. Heat the oil in a pan over medium heat and cook the patties 3–4 minutes a side until golden and just cooked through — don't overcook. 3:46
7. Set each burger on a butter lettuce leaf, spread with the lemon dill yoghurt and top with tomato, avocado, red onion and sprouts, then a second leaf. 4:37

> Tip Use sockeye, coho or king salmon. Cooked or raw patties freeze for 3 months; cooked ones keep 3–4 days. Grill them only after a longer chill, as they are fragile.
