Poulet Yassa (Senegalese Lemon-Onion Chicken)

420 min · Serves 6 · 406 kcal a serve · Video 7:05 · Chef Lola's Kitchen

No dairy listed

The sauce is built from lemon juice, vinegar, mustard and a big pile of slow-cooked onions rather than cream or sugar. About 26 g of protein per serve, and rich in selenium, vitamin B6 and zinc.

Diet notes: Paleo with a swap: avocado oil instead of the peanut oil; Gluten-free with a swap: Check the bouillon label; some contain wheat.

Allergens found in the listed ingredients: Gluten, Peanut, Mustard, Sulphites. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Mix the lemon juice, vinegar, mustard, 2 tbsp oil, garlic, bouillon, habanero, ground ginger, salt and pepper in a bowl. 0:28
2. Put the chicken in a large bowl with the sliced onions and bay leaves, pour over the marinade and mix well. Cover and refrigerate for at least a few hours, preferably overnight. 2:08
3. Lift the chicken out of the marinade. Heat 2–3 tbsp oil in a wide pot over medium heat and brown the thighs for 5–6 minutes on each side, in batches so the pan isn't crowded. Set aside. 2:54
4. Scoop the onions out of the marinade (keep the liquid) and fry them in the same pot for 5–10 minutes until well softened and reduced. 4:06
5. Return the chicken, pour in the reserved marinade and 180 ml stock or water. Simmer on medium-low for 20–25 minutes, stirring now and then, until the chicken is tender and the sauce has thickened. 4:51
6. Stir in the olives, if using, and simmer 3–5 minutes more. Adjust the seasoning and scatter with parsley. 5:37

> Tip Time includes 6 hours of marinating (overnight is best). Serve over white rice or mashed potatoes, as the cook suggests. Leftovers taste even better the next day.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
