About 47 g protein and 9 g net carbs a serve: gizzards are a lean, budget cut, slowly stewed in tomato and onion with just 2 tbsp of sour cream.

Diet notes: Low carb (9.1 g net carbs) but not keto: 33% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Rinse and trim the gizzards, leave them whole, cover with boiling water and simmer, skimming off any foam. 0:35
2. Add the halved onion, 2 bay leaves, a heaped tsp of salt, the allspice and peppercorns. Cover and simmer another 30–40 minutes (45–50 in all). Lift out the gizzards to cool; discard the broth, onion and bay. 1:50
3. Cut the 2 onions in half, then into quarter rings. 3:15
4. Heat the butter and 1 tbsp oil in a well-heated frying pan and fry the onion until translucent and just golden. Grate the carrot and blend the tomatoes meanwhile. 3:37
5. Cut the cooled gizzards into thin strips and finely chop the garlic. 4:40
6. Add the tomatoes, carrot and garlic to the onion, lower the heat and stew until soft. Stir 2 tbsp sour cream into 100–150 ml water so it doesn't curdle and pour it in. 5:58
7. Add the gizzards and a little more water (up to about 240 ml), the pepper, chicken seasoning and ½ tsp salt. Cover and simmer on medium about 30 minutes. 7:15
8. Stir in the chopped herbs, let it bubble for a minute, then turn off the heat and serve. 8:43

> Tip The cook uses turkey gizzards; chicken work the same. Serves about 5 (not stated). She serves it with boiled rice and cabbage salad — the salad alone keeps it lower in carbs.
