Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat the oven to 300°F (275°F fan-forced). Pat the shanks dry, season, and brown them all over in the oil in a large heavy casserole for 8–10 minutes. Set aside. 0:20
2. Pour off all but 2 tsp fat. On medium heat cook the onion, carrots, garlic and thyme sprigs for 4 minutes, then stir in the tomato paste for 2 minutes until it darkens and starts to catch. 1:12
3. Pour in the wine, scraping up the base, add the stock and return the lamb. Bring to a simmer. 1:54
4. Cover and cook in the oven for 1¼ hours, turn the shanks and cook covered for 1 hour more, then uncover for 20 minutes until very tender. Rest the lamb under foil. 2:34
5. Skim the fat off the sauce and discard the thyme sprigs. Stir in the beans and thyme leaves and simmer 8–10 minutes until hot; season. 3:45
6. Spoon the beans onto a platter, add the lamb, top with watercress and lemon zest and drizzle with a little oil. 4:57

> Tip Serves 4 (as Curtis Stone says). Skimming the fat after braising keeps it lighter. No wine? Use extra salt-reduced stock. Leftover meat and beans freeze well.
