Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Soak the beans 3–4 hours, then boil them in about 2 litres of water, covered, for 40–50 minutes until tender; drain. 0:02
2. Meanwhile make the dama (stew base): fry the diced onions in the oil with 1 tsp ground coriander until soft and melting. 0:48
3. Add the beef and salt, stir well, then pour in 710 ml of boiling water. Cover and cook on medium heat for 40 minutes. 1:15
4. Stir in the garlic and tomato paste, loosen with 240 ml of water, cover and simmer 15 minutes until the sauce thickens. 1:53
5. Add the cooked beans, the rest of the coriander and the black pepper, cover and simmer a few more minutes before serving. 2:30

> Tip Sudanese families eat it with rice, bread or kisra (thin sorghum flatbread); a salad keeps the meal lighter. Serves 5 is our estimate. Canned white beans (about 575 g drained, 2½ × 400 g cans) save the soaking.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in Arabic) shows every step.
