High-Protein Breakfast Casserole with Turkey and Broccoli

55 min · Serves 8 · 376 kcal a serve · Video 4:00 · Ethan Paff

Gluten-free ingredients · No nuts listed

Lean turkey, eggs and cottage cheese give about 40 g protein for only 9 g net carbs a serve, with broccoli for vitamin C — a filling make-ahead breakfast with no bread or potato.

Diet notes: Low carb (8.7 g net carbs) but not keto: 46% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Mince half a shallot and the garlic and roughly chop the mushrooms. Heat the oven to 375°F. 0:21
2. Brown the ground turkey in a hot pan over medium heat, seasoning it with 1 tsp salt, and flip it once the underside colours. 1:25
3. Add the mushrooms to cook down with the meat, then the white pepper and sage; mash the mixture into a fine mince with a potato masher. Stir in the shallot and garlic and turn off the heat. 1:40
4. Crack the 18 eggs into a large bowl, add the second tsp of salt and whisk well. 2:09
5. Whisk in the cottage cheese (blend it first if you don't want curds), then the cooked turkey and mushroom mixture. 2:33
6. Microwave the frozen broccoli with a splash of water for about 4 minutes, drain off the liquid so the bake isn't watery, and stir it in. 2:56
7. Pour into a 9 × 13 inch glass baking dish (greasing is optional) and bake 40 minutes, until firm and browned on top. Cut into portions and refrigerate for the week. 3:26

> Tip The cook eats it as 5 big servings (about 550 kcal, 2 oz protein each) and gives macros for 8 or 10; we use 8. Cottage cheese is salty, so you can halve the salt. Keeps 4–5 days in the fridge.
