Ribollita: Tuscan Bean, Kale and Bread Soup

80 min · Serves 10 · 367 kcal a serve · Video 10:07 · Chef Billy Parisi

No nuts listed

Cannellini beans, kale, cabbage and carrot give each bowl about 12 g of fibre plus plant protein, iron, vitamin A and lots of vitamin K, with only 2 tbsp of oil for ten bowls; puréed beans thicken it instead of cream.

Diet notes: Vegan if you leave out the parmesan; Vegetarian with a vegetarian hard cheese instead of the parmesan (traditionally made with animal rennet); Low saturated fat (1.1 g, 3% of the energy); No dairy if you leave out the parmesan.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Soak the beans overnight in plenty of water. Drain, cover with fresh water by about 2 inches, add the rosemary sprig and simmer 30–35 minutes until tender. 0:59
2. Remove the rosemary. Blend half the beans with some of their liquid until smooth; keep the rest warm in their liquid. 5:50
3. In a large pot, sweat the onion, celery, carrot and garlic in the olive oil over low-medium heat 8–10 minutes until tender but not browned. 5:02
4. Add the kale, cabbage, whole beans with their liquid, the bean purée, crushed tomatoes and stock. Cover and cook on low 15–20 minutes until the greens are tender. 6:28
5. Season well with salt and pepper. Put a slice of stale bread in each bowl, ladle the soup over and finish with parmesan, parsley and a little rosemary if you like. 8:16

> Tip Start a day ahead: the time shown does not include soaking the beans overnight (or use about 4 drained cans of cannellini). Keep soup and bread separate; the soup keeps 4 days and freezes 3 months.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
