Spiced Red Lentil Stew (Ades / Misir)

70 min · Serves 4 · 247 kcal a serve · Video 4:39 · Yodit's Table

Vegan · Gluten-free ingredients · No nuts listed

Red lentils give plant protein, fibre, folate and iron, and the tomato base adds vitamin C, which helps the body absorb that iron. Vegan, cheap and cooked in just 2 tbsp of oil.

Diet notes: Low saturated fat (1 g, 4% of the energy).

Allergens found in the listed ingredients: none. Worked out from the ingredient list, not tested. Stock, sauces, spice mixes and other packaged foods can contain allergens, so always read the labels on what you buy. If you have a food allergy, don't rely on this.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the chopped onion in a dry pot over medium-high heat and let it cook until most of its moisture is gone and it starts to stick, then add the oil. 1:02
2. Keep cooking until the onion is very soft and lightly golden. Stir in the berbere powder, berbere paste and garlic with about 2 tbsp water and cook for a minute or two. 1:33
3. Add the blended tomatoes, cover and simmer for 15–20 minutes until thick, glossy and deep red. 1:58
4. Stir in the rinsed lentils, then the water, Vegeta and about ½ tsp salt. Cover and cook for 20–25 minutes. 2:26
5. If the lentils are still firm and the pot is drying out, add another cup of water and cook about 10 minutes more until soft. Adjust the salt and reduce to the thickness you like. 3:04
6. Serve with injera, pita or rice. 4:23

> Tip Serves 4 (our estimate). The cook uses about 2½ tsp salt plus Vegeta; start with half and adjust to keep sodium moderate. It thickens on standing, so loosen with water when reheating. Freezes well.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
