Low-Carb Zucchini Lasagna with Beef and Ricotta

80 min · Serves 12 · 342 kcal a serve · Video 8:09 · Downshiftology

Gluten-free ingredients · No nuts listed

Zucchini replaces the pasta sheets, so a serve has about 7 g net carbs and 27 g protein from the beef and cheeses — a filling, low-carb lasagna.

Diet notes: Low carb (7.1 g net carbs) but not keto: 57% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Trim the zucchini and slice them lengthwise on a mandoline (medium setting) or with a vegetable peeler. To make the lasagna less watery, salt the slices for 15 minutes and blot dry, or grill them 1–2 minutes a side. 1:28
2. Heat the oven to 400°F. Brown the beef in a large pan over medium-high heat, breaking it into small pieces until no pink remains. Stir in all the pasta sauce except ½ cup, then turn off the heat. 3:18
3. Grate the parmesan and mozzarella. Stir the ricotta with the egg, salt and pepper, then mix in the parmesan. 3:50
4. Roughly chop the basil and parsley. 4:56
5. Spread the reserved ½ cup sauce in a 9×13 inch dish and lay in zucchini slices, overlapping by half. Top with half the meat sauce, half the ricotta mix, ½ cup mozzarella and a third of the herbs. 5:14
6. Repeat the layers once, then finish with a last layer of zucchini pressed down flat, the remaining herbs and the last ½ cup mozzarella. 6:05
7. Bake 40–45 minutes until bubbling, then grill (broil) about 5 minutes to brown the top. Scatter with basil leaves and lift portions out with a slotted spatula so any liquid stays in the dish. 7:02

> Tip Freezes well in portions. Thinner zucchini slices in a single layer give a firmer, less watery lasagna. Lean beef mince lowers the fat; a no-sugar-added pasta sauce keeps carbs down.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
